

Erin Engelmeyer

Erin is a graduate of the University of Missouri Columbia with degrees in Early Childhood Education and a Master's Degree in Public Administration.

As Miss Missouri 1995, she competed in the 75th Anniversary Competition of the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City. Serving the state as Miss Missouri, she was a spokesperson on volunteerism for the Missouri Community Service Commission and an advocate for literacy through Literacy Investment for Tomorrow. Erin was awarded the "Salute To Literacy" award presented by former first lady Barbara Bush for the literacy program she created called "Reading for Success"

Erin was a Champion Committed to Kids coach for three years, a program that pairs kids with disabilities with athletic teams. She was able to see first hand how the program positively impacts the Champion Kids, athletes, coaches and community and currently serves on the Board of Directors.

Erin serves as the District Director for U.S. Senator Josh Hawley in Southwest Missouri.

She and her husband, Michael have been married for 24 years and have three children-Sam (22), Zach (18) and Caroline (15).
